

Portable moving and storage

Probably one of the least enjoyable tasks in our lives is storage and moving. Portable on demand storage can save you a lot of time and money. With portable on demand storage, you are in charge of when things are packed, when they are moved, and how long they are stored.

Portable on demand storage containers offer the most convenient way to organize your belongings. The container is five feet wide, seven feet tall, and eight feet deep. Containers are five feet wide, seven feet tall, and eight feet deep. Each container can hold about one and one half rooms of furniture, which is equivalent to forty or fifty moving boxes. The floor of the container is only four inches off the ground which makes it easier to load than a rental truck. You lock the door or the storage and moving container with your own key so no one else has access to your belongings.

Portable on demand moving services has made storage and moving so much more easier than in the past. Storage and moving containers are delivered directly to you so you can pack up when you have the time. No need to worry about deadlines on returning a moving truck because the container remains on your property until you call the company to pick it up. The moving container can be moved directly to your new residence or it can be put in storage until you are ready to have it delivered. You can pack up a few rooms at a time and put them in storage until you are ready to move which can save you time and money.

You lock your container with your own lock once your storage and moving container is loaded. Since you are the only one who has a key, your belongings are safe in the storage and moving container. Your belongings are kept dry and free of mildew because the containers are made of wood.

Thanks to portable on demand storage, storage and moving is no longer the tedious task of lifting heavy boxes. Moving and storage can now be done at your leisure, saving you time and money in the long run.
